How to succeed with Start Your Coaching Business?

Who Is This Quest For?

This Quest is for all Coaches who want to create e bigger impact in the world, but don't know where to start. It will get you closer to building the coaching business that you have always dreamed of, without burning yourself out.

How We Learn

Here at Mindvalley, we are invested in your growth. As such, we seek to bring you the most cutting-edge learning experience to create life-long transformations.

Here's a brief explanation of how you can make the most out of your learning:

1. Information: We learn information, which creates knowledge. In this program, you'll learn from Ajit's experience of over 1 decade of coaching. Take notes!

2. Integration: Now, don't just take notes of the information, integrate it with what you already know or how it relates to your life/purpose. This is how information sticks! Make the information meaningful.

3. Practice: Take action. Put what you know into practice. You'll be asked to practice and post videos in the Tribe. The key to transformation is through action.

How This Program Is Structured

Each daily lesson consists of a 10-15 minute video and Actions Steps.

There are small actions and big actions, so be prepared to do your self-work.
Some daily actions will take longer than others to complete.
We recommend you schedule a time in your day dedicated to watching daily lessons, completing your actions and engaging in the Tribe.

Each skill builds on top of the other, and so the activities will become more challenging as your continue with the quest. Be prepared, because it is going to get intense.

Top 3 Hurdles

1. Not enough time
Schedule when you will set aside 30 minutes in the day to dedicate to learning and completing your daily actions. Note: Some days will require more time than others.

2. Low motivation
Remember why you started this quest in the first place, apply what you have learned immediately, and know that practice and celebrating the little victories are key to keeping up momentum. When in doubt, revisit your intentions and the commitment you made at the beginning.

3. Resistance
Resistance is normal and expected. There will be challenges. Ajit encourages you to show up and play full out!

What Happens If I Miss A Day?

We understand life happens, and you might miss a day or two. Don't let that detract you and continue where you left off.
You also have the opportunity to complete tasks later on in the quest. The importance is showing up and finishing.

Set Your Intentions

It is important to start with knowing what you wish to get out of the experience. Intentions help to create more clarity, especially when the seed is planted right before you start.
Write down your intentions for starting the Start Your Coaching Business Quest. What do you hope to leave with by the end of this quest?

Baseline Assessment

Before you start your quest, let's gauge where your coaching skills are first. This pre-assessment is helpful for two reasons:

1. It will help clarify what areas you should focus on in the quest.
2. It will help set a benchmark for yourself, so you can later evaluate which areas you've developed as a result of participating in this quest.

| Rate how true these statements are to you on a scale from 1 to 10. (1 - least true; 10 - most true) | Rate |

| 5. You have clarity on how to create the future you want | |
| 6. You have a clear action plan for the next 6 months | |
| 7. You know what it takes to be an extraordinary coach | |
| 8. You have clear boundaries to protect your energy | |
| 9. You know how to understand and manage different personalities from your clients | |
| 10. You have a clear understanding about how people learn | |
| 11. You know how to build and expand your methodology | |
| 12. You know how to ask powerful questions that elicit insight | |
| 13. You know what your message is and how to communicate it effectively | |
| 14. You know how to create packages for your coaching services | |
| 15. You know where to find clients | |
| 16. You can connect with your clients at a dee level | |
| 17. You have confidence around sales | |
| 18. You have made bold proposals | |

How To Use Your Start Your Coaching Business Journal

This journal is intended to help you along with your learning journey. You can use it to help you incorporate your daily lessons, or choose to use your own journal if you'd like.

This journal will help you with 3 things:

1. Take better notes.
2. Prepare, reflect, and/or brainstorm your daily actions.
3. Turn what you learn into action.

You see, there's a learning curve, but there's also a forgetting curve. Within 48 hours of learning something new, our brains will have forgotten up to 80% of the information.

That is, unless you become involved in your learning.

We have incorporated an area for you to take notes on each section, as you go through the course, and complete the exercises.

TIP: We recommend you print these pages and write your notes by hand. You'll have better results, because writing by hand motivates us to be more selective of key information.

Action Steps

The most transformative experiences come through acting on what you know and then reflecting on what you have learned. Get ready, because Ajit will be teaching you through small and big actions in this quest.

Use the space in the Actions Steps section of every lesson as an optional supplement to hold all your reflections, preparations, brainstorming, and/or lessons.

Day 1: Your Contributing Past

Big ideas from this lesson:

- Think about the last 10 years of your life. Notice how much you have grown and evolved, see how many challenges you have overcome.
- Everything you have experienced brings value to your life and that of the people you are here to serve.
- 3 types of mindsets that dictate how we run our life: 1. Victim, 2. Survivor, 3. Thriver.
- If you want to have a thriver mindset,  know that you ARE enough
- You are who you are and that's perfect.

Day 2: Your Powerful Present

Big ideas from this lesson:

- You can't change the world without learning to take care of YOU first.
- There are 5 states that you have to take care of. They all interact holistically for your wellbeing.

1. The Mental State: Your mind is the source of all that you are. Your mind creates and holds your beliefs.
2. The Brain State: Our brain works differently depending on the 5 types of brain waves we experience: Gamma, Beta, Alpha, Theta, Delta.
3. The Body State: Your body is your vessel, take good care of it.
4. The Spirit State: It is energy that flows through your body, what connects you to the Infinite Intelligence.
5. The Emotional State: Nurturing your emotional state, you will make sure that you always function at peak states.

Day 3: Conquering Your Fears

Big ideas from this lesson:

- There are 3 different fear cultures: 1. Aversion, 2. Scarcity, 3. Worthiness.
- The first thing to navigate and beat fear is to be aware of where it comes from.
- When we are in a state of fear we trigger our "fight or flight" response. This blocks your decision making process and creativity.
- The only difference between fear and excitement is your attitude about it: We can shift it in the same way we can shift any of our thoughts.
- We ALL experience fear. But it is more a mental construct than a reality. It's all in our mind.
- Remember: "What you resist, persists", so embrace your fear, understand it, write down the reasons for it, prepare, practice, role play and educate yourself.
- Creative visualization: visualize what you want for your life (and not what you don't want)
- Go back to your WHY: remember why you're doing what you do and keep going forward.
- Enthusiasm is key: control your energy! Fill up your cup

Day 4: Emotional Fitness

Big ideas from this lesson:

If you're looking to rock the journey to emotional fitness so you can enhance your business, make a difference for your clients, and stand out as an extraordinary coach, you have to consider the following characteristics as your essential ingredients:

1. Authenticity: Be you. There is no one else like you. That is your biggest business advantage! Don't compare to others
2. Drive: Find your WHY and use it as your everlasting guiding star.
3. Enthusiasm: Bring your best energy to everything you do
4. Courage: Fear will show up, no matter how much experience you have. Do what you have to do, even if it scares you.
5. Curiosity: Keep on learning and expanding your horizons. Be curious about the world and the people around you.
6. Presence: Be in the present. Stop running after the next goal. Savor the moment that you are in.
7. Empathy: Don't judge other people for their choices. Put yourself in their shoes, understand that we are all in different parts of our journey and we act from the place we are in.
8. Self-Compassion: Love yourself in the same powerful way as you love the people around you
9. Adaptability: Our environment changes. People change. Everything is in constant motion and evolution. Be open to the change and adapt yourself and your methodology constantly.
10. Vulnerability: Don't be afraid to open yourself fully. Vulnerability opens the door to transformation, and when you are vulnerable first, you let your clients be open as well. Lead the way, it will transform lives.
11. Resilience: In life and business there will be many ups and downs. Challenges and obstacles are a normal part of life. The difference resides in our capacity to overcome the difficult moments and keep moving forward.

Day 5: Your Future With Endless Possibilities

Big ideas from this lesson:

- Crafting your future is not about having the best opportunities in life lay at your feet, it is about understanding your goals and the rules to become extraordinary, and pouring all your heart and soul into the process.
- Goals are a mental construct, and as important as they are, they do not define you. Don't let them define you, let them empower you.
- Becoming extraordinary is not out of your reach. All you have to do is follow these 10 rules

1. Rule #1 Transcend the Culturescape.
2. Rule #2 Question The Brules.
3. Rule #3 Practice Consciousness Engineering.
4. Rule #4 Rewrite Your Models Of Reality.
5. Rule #5 Upgrade Your Systems For Living.
6. Rule #6 Bend Reality.
7. Rule #7 Live in Blissipline.

Day 6: Design Your 6-Month Plan

Big ideas from this lesson:

- When you are starting your business, it's key to have a plan in place, so you don't get overwhelmed about all the different ideas that might show up in your way.
- Lack of clarity is one of the main reasons that many entrepreneurs don't go past the first 6 months of their business.
- In the next 2 weeks, as you learn more about this program, you will adapt your 6-month plan.
- Every business is a function of 3 central ideas

1. YOU: and all the ways to keep you at peak states and constant learning
2. YOUR METHODOLOGY
3. YOUR BUSINESS

Your Notes:

_____

_____

_____

Action Step: Fill out Your 6-Month action plan

Create a short list of what you want to implement in the next 6 months in the following 3 areas:

YOU - What you want to learn to become a better person, how you want to grow, what you are going to do to keep your energy at peak states.

Day 9: Set Your Boundaries

Big ideas from this lesson:

- Boundaries are limits that you set for yourself and your clients.
- You have to be very clear on what are your non-negotiables. It will give you balance and structure as well.
- Boundaries are about relationship management.
- Be willing to let go of the client if it's not a fit. This will attract the right people to work with you and protect your energy.
- Some of the boundaries you have to set up with your clients before beginning any professional relationship are:

1. Business is business.
2. Respect of time.
3. Payments.
4. Refunds.
5. Expectations.

Day 10: Mastering Human Behavior

Big ideas from this lesson:

- Your clients are going to have different ways that they are going to be motivated, influenced and ways that they can learn better.
- By understanding people's behavior, you will understand and communicate with them easier.
- There is a tool that I use called the Myers-Briggs personality assessment (MBTI). This tool is based on 4 different dichotomies, that as a result give you 16 different personalities.

1. The E-I dichotomy- Focused on how we direct or receive energy: Extroverted or Introverted.
2. The S-N dichotomy- Focused on how we absorb information: Sensing or Intuition.
3. The T-F dichotomy- Focused on how we make decisions: Thinking or Feeling.
4. The J-P Dichotomy- Focused on how we approach the outside world: Judging or Perceiving.

Day 11: Understanding How People Learn

Big ideas from this lesson:

- There are the three main ways in which people learn: Visual, auditory or kinesthetic.
- The words you choose are vital because they will resonate with the ways your clients learn.
- For a visual learner: "Imagine", "look", "see". These are words a visual learner might be mindful of.
- For an auditory learner: They learn by listening and might have to speak aloud, ask questions, and repeat things out loud. Words such as "click", "hear", "splash", "churp", "echo"
- For a kinesthetic learner: They learn by doing. Words such as: "comfortable", "feel", "experience", "sense", "arrange"

Day 12: Building Your Methodology

Big ideas from this lesson:

- DLT or Disjointed Learning Theory: Researchers have found this to characterize the most connected and fast-growing professionals and entrepreneurs.
- When you learn from seemingly unrelated sources you tend to learn faster, better and more holistically.
- You should learn from different sources.
- The more varied and disjointed the sources, you tend to learn different ideas, allowing your mind to connect the dots the way it wants to connect. Creating original thought. Original method.
- It shows that there is no one way, which allows us to explore whatever feels right.

Day 13: The Power Of Questions

Big ideas from this lesson:

- This is the only way for people to truly incorporate the transformation in their own lives and hold themselves accountable for taking action.
- Powerful questions guide clients to discover who they are and what they want, connect with their Innate Intelligence within and find the solutions that are right for them.

How to ask powerful questions?

1. Listen with your entire being.
2. Be outrageous.
3. Ask open-ended questions.

- What's on your mind today?
- What does this mean to you?
- What has been your biggest challenge so far?
- What has stopped you from reaching your goals?
- What are you most proud of?

Questions to open them to new possibilities and generate new ideas
- If you could create anything, what would that be?
- What do you have to believe or do to make this happen?
- What does success look like for you?
- Can you tell me more?

Questions intended for them to take action
- What is the first step you need to take in order to achieve your goal?
- When are you planning to start?
- What will happen if you don't take action? How will that make you feel?
- What support do you need? What do you need to know?
- What are some possible options you can try?
- If you can change only one thing right now, what would that be?

Day 15: Finding Your Avatar

Big ideas from this lesson:

- To understand people, you have to understand their needs.
- Abraham Maslow explained the 5 basic human needs that influence pretty much every decision we ever make in our lives: 1. Physiological, 2. Safety, 3. Belongingness, 4. Esteem, 5. Self-Actualization.
- Our needs build on top of each other.
- The only way that we can create rapid and permanent transformations in our clients is when we really get to know them.
- Defining the type of clients that you want to work with will bring you clarity on how to craft your message, design your offer, write your copy, create your packages and design everything else about your business.
- Your avatar might change over time, and this is OK, you simply go through this same exercise of asking questions if you need.

Day 16: Finding And Communicating Your Message

Big ideas from this lesson:

- Go back to your story. Go back to what you uncovered on week 1.
- Don't be afraid to be open and vulnerable. This is the best way to invite your clients to do the same. They will feel more connected with you when you are genuine.
- What do you believe in? What are the things that you stand against? Include all of you in your message. This is what creates connection.
- There is a tool that I learned from my friend Lisa Nichols called "Story stacks"
- People tend to forget most of the content you share, but they never forget a story.
- There are four basic stories that you have to think about and have prepared in order to share in your content:
- Story #1: The origin.
- Story #2: Fear.
- Story #3:Time and Money.
- Story #4: Regret.

Day 17: Creating Powerful Packages

Big ideas from this lesson:

- DSP Framework (Desire — Solution — Package): designed to create the ideal outcomes for your clients while making it easy for you to enroll them.
- It focuses on the Desire that your clients have, and the Solution you have to offer in order to craft your Packages.
- First, you have to consider: Your goals, your preferred style of working with people, your client's goals.
- Elements of the DSP framework: 1. Problem, 2. Desire, 3. Outcome, 4. Package, 5. Price, 6. Action Price

More tips about packages:

1. The formula is to come up with a ballpark but you can charge what feels best for you.
2. Your packages will change over time as you deliver them.
3. Listen what is working best for your clients and implement their preference.
4. Do not come from a place of lack (there are not enough clients)
5. Don't discount. You are already giving them a price that feels good to you.
6. Don't tweak a package to fit a client's needs, you only offer a different one if it doesn't fit for that person. If a lot of people ask you to tweak, then consider.

Day 18: Where To Find Clients

Big ideas from this lesson:

- Clients are everywhere!
- You don't want to enroll everyone.
- Think about 50 people that you would like to have a conversation with (that fit into your Avatar, and start opening conversations with them.
- 4 advanced strategies for client creation: 1. The Circle, 2. Micro-Gathering, 3. Authority interviews, 4. Social Avalanche
- What strategy you choose depends on: What you feel most comfortable with, the stage of your business and the access that you have.

Day 19: Connecting On A Deep Level

Big ideas from this lesson:

- Without connection, nothing else in your relationship can happen.
- People need to trust you before they work with you.
- By sharing your message and provide real value to your clients consistently, you can create an almost unbreakable sense of connection and trust.
- Here are some other ways that you can connect with people: #1 Attend events that your clients love, #2 Attend industry events, #3 Speak at events, #4 Write a powerful proposal and hit send
- Tips for connecting with your potential clients: Be curious, Talk about possibility, Be vulnerable, Inspire thought and action, Establish your authority, Use stories, Use humor.

Day 20: Selling Is Love

Big ideas from this lesson:

- Jay Abraham: talks about Strategy of Preeminence. It suggests that sales are not about selling someone something, it's about serving your client.
- I operate from a place of love when I'm serving my clients.
- If you don't let other people know what you do and offer them to work with you, how can you possibly create an impact on their lives?
- Common misconceptions around sales: 1. It takes a certain personality to sell, 2. Sales are about manipulating people, 3. People don't like to be sold, 4. Sales are hard, 5. If you have a good product, you don't need to sell.
- Sales are about getting people to take action, to work towards their change, and get results
- Think about sales as a "video game" with endless lives. Gamify your sales process and make it fun!
- The 12-question framework sales methodology is included below.

Practice having a sales conversation with one person that you previously coached.

Here is the 12-question framework sales methodology. You can use it for your sales conversations

- #1: "What inspired you to show up and have this conversation with me?"

This question is here to start on a lighter note and give you insight on creating bonding and trust.

- #2: "If you could create anything for your future in the next year, what is it that you'd like to create for yourself personally, professionally and financially?"

This question allows us to create a an understanding what the needs are for the clients. It shares their vision of the future — also it makes them future focused, which is a positive, empowering state.

- #3: "Let's get specific on what would you like to see. What's most important for you to accomplish in the next year personally, professionally and financially? What's most important for you?"

We want to get into their most important goal

- #4: "Tell me why _____ the most important to you?"

You want to find out why they want to get the goal

- #5: "What is stopping you from having this number one goal?"

Ultimately, what's stopping them is some type of belief that they have or lack of knowing how to go get it. We want to uncover that.

- #6: "What would it mean to you to solve this challenge?"

It leads them to give us direction in which we should go next

- #7: "On a scale of one to 10, how committed are you to solving this challenge?"

We want to see where somebody's level of commitment is.

- #8: "What's stopping you from being at a 10?"

This opens your clients up for objections they might have.

- #9: "What it's going to take to get you to a 10?"

This allows us to create a effective pitch right after this conversation.

- #10: "What is it costing you not to take action on your vision and dreams?"

This is helpful for clients to realize that the time to take action is now.

- #11: "What are you going to do about it?"

Now, I'm putting in their space for them to originate their next action step.

- #12: "Would you like to hear a little bit about my programs and how I can help you take action on your vision and dreams?"

This is the final question before you transition into the enrollment part of the conversation.

Day 21: Bold Proposals

Big ideas from this lesson:

- There are some core principles around proposals
- Before the proposal: 1. Energy, 2. Believing in your offer, 3. Have at least 3 options ready.
- During and after the proposal: 1. Understanding No's, 2. Allow space for silence, 3. Ask open-ended questions, 4. Making your proposal "real"
  Have people write down these elements: 1. Their vision, 2. The strategy to get there, 3. Mindset needed, 4. Skillset (what do they need to learn?), 5. Energy to make the process sustainable
- At the end, say your number, and then stop talking. Let your client bring to the table what is stopping them. it's your client's responsibility to find a way to work with you if they are ready.
- If you feel that your client is not a right fit, be willing to walk away from a sale.
- Remember people might feel scared about their own transformation, coaching is not easy for everyone
- Don't be needy!

What next?

Big ideas from this lesson:

- Living Big is all about death and rebirth. You don't "become" something. You ARE something.
- There are 3 things I found that will help you find what Live Big means to you:

1. Meaning: What is your biggest passion? What is the purpose? Is it practical?
2. Mojo: Work on yourself. You are the centerpiece.
3. Magic: Your support systems.

- The Time Challenge: In these busy times, having a clear structure can really help us design the life that we want to live.
- Stages and States: At different stages of your business you need to manage your states differently so you can create more time for you.
- The 4 x 4 principle: I work 4 days a week for 4 hours a day.
- The Pareto Principle: 80% of results are caused by 20% of activity. Find the 20% of that 20%.
- Parkinson's Law: work expands so as to fill the time available for its completion. Your work will take as much time as you decide to give it.
- "Deep Work" by Cal Newport. Talks about how in this time we live in fractured time, where we get a lot of distractions. This makes our work take longer. If you want to create high-quality work in less time, you need to assign time to deep work, where you focus only one thing at a time.
- IN or ON the business: In the business means you are in front of your laptop, working. On the business means you are in an event or workshop. Something that expands your skills and helps you grow.
